

This issue is in NO WAY intended to be “homophobic” or “hateful.” In fact, it is quite the opposite. When a person warns another of danger, it is a loving act. We are trying to warn those involved in homosexual behavior of its dangers, both physically and spiritually, out of a heart of love. We are not ashamed to say that homosexuality is offensive to God and will be punished, but we understand that all sin is offensive to God and worthy of his wrath.

None of us needs to stay in our sins. God has provided a way out through the sacrifice of his son, Jesus. He bore the wrath of God for sinners so that they would not have to. He was raised from the dead to prove that he had power over both sin and death. This power is given to us through Christ when we repent and believe.

We no longer have to stay bound to sins like homosexuality, or greed, or lust, or gossip, or pride. We can be free from these prisons! It is NOT unloving to point out certain danger and urge someone to avoid it. We love homosexuals, and that is why we printed this paper.

Repent of your sins and believe the truth about Jesus Christ, for the sake of your own soul!

“Its Natural”

People often justify homosexuality because “it’s natural” or “I was born like this.” This doesn’t seem true for a number of reasons. For one thing, it can’t be natural because a homosexual lifestyle won’t produce offspring. Many claim that the purpose of life is to survive; by being homosexual, one is not doing that at all. A museum called the Oslo Natural History Museum features an exhibit that presents several “examples” of beetles, giraffes, penguins, and parrots engaging in behavior that might be called homosexual. This, all of a sudden, justifies homosexuality because it happens in nature. Animals do it, so that justifies it for humans! Well, that logic opens up a lot of possibilities for the human race. Now, we can eat our kids if we want to, because that's what 10% of the adult Komodo dragon's diet consists of: juvenile Komodo dragons. Female praying mantises and black widow spiders kill and eat the male after mating with him. And a good deal of male animals fight and kill sexual rivals. You can see the flawed logic here. Humans don't want to mimic animal behavior and animal behavior does not justify human behavior.

Another argument that is used often is: "I was born a homosexual." Whether or not this is true is beside the point. A person could say, "I was born a pedophile" (an adult who likes to have sex with children). Are his actions justified because he thinks he was born this way? Some actually say they were born pedophiles. If you justify homosexuality with this logic, then you justify being a pedophile.

It's Obvious!

A n s w e r i n g t h e C r i t i c i s m

I was born this way.

If there's a genetic cause, then there's also a genetic cure, and the Bible is clear that it's wrong. This does not justify it as being acceptable.

My lifestyle isn't hurting anybody.

Evidence has been presented that a homosexual lifestyle spreads disease and shortens life. The emotional toll of a homosexual lifestyle is also worth considering.

What's so unnatural about it?

First of all, it is rather obvious that it doesn't produce children. Secondly, just because something can be done doesn't mean it should be. See It's Natural

I was meant to be the opposite sex.

If you're designed the way you were, that's the way you were meant to be. God doesn't make mistakes.

Society accepts it.

Society accepted slavery. Society accepted the gladiators. The list goes on. Society doesn't justify anything.

Doesn't the Bible say that it's wrong to judge?

It's wrong to judge self-righteously. Meaning, it's wrong to judge by your own standards for your own purposes. Christians urge all people to submit themselves to God's judgments.

Everyone is different.

That doesn't justify anything. What if someone wants to be different by being a murderer?

Aren't Christians supposed to love everyone?

We do. That's why we even publish this paper. Loving some one means wanting what's best for them, and homosexuality is never best for someone.

Everyone sins, even Christians.

And the Bible calls all sinners to repent, to realize that they're sinning. It also says that the wages of sin is death. If someone realizes they're sinning, they should repent of it.
